Description

A beautiful composition in the Flemish tradition depicting a bountiful still life of fruits, grapes, fine tableware, glassware, and elegant objects, arranged on a table covered with a white drape. The scene is complemented, on the left, by a musical instrument and, in the background, by an open architectural setting and a globe. The composition is a very faithful reproduction of the famous painting by Jan Davidsz. de Heem (1606-1684), Fruits and Rich Tableware on a Table, formerly known as A Dessert, painted in 1640 and housed in the Louvre Museum. The arrangement of the fruit, the silverware, the globe, and the musical instruments establishes a particularly close connection to the Louvre's original. It is likely an early copy or afterimage based on the master's work, executed in the
