Description

Wall-mounted coat rack consisting of a mahogany-veneered plywood panel with four aluminum coat hooks attached to it. This model was designed by Pierre Guariche as part of the interior design for the apartments at the La Plagne ski resort in the French Alps around 1968. Shown here with the original wall sconces from the same collection, produced by Parscot, it reflects the designer's desire to create a cohesive ensemble, where furniture and lighting share the same understated and functional aesthetic. France, circa 1968.
