Description

Pair of Belle Époque-era hoop earrings, circa 1900, crafted in 750/°° yellow gold (18 KT, eagle-head hallmark) and 925/°° silver. The upper portion of each earring features a delicate silver foliage motif set with rose-cut diamonds, extending into a movable circular disc. This disc is framed by a yellow gold border and adorned with a radiating silver motif entirely set with rose-cut diamonds, surrounding a central diamond. The combination of yellow gold and silver is characteristic of jewelry from this period: the silver, used in close proximity to the diamonds, enhances their brilliance, while the yellow gold defines and warms the setting. The openwork design of the discs further contributes to the overall delicacy of the piece. Set as pendants, the discs are hinged beneath the leaf motifs. This mobility gives the earrings a very graceful drape and makes the diamonds sparkle with the slightest movement. The earrings feature a secure and very easy-to-use lever-back clasp, allowing for effortless placement on the ear. A particularly refined pair of antique earrings, representative of the delicacy of Belle Époque jewelry, whose design, hinged construction, and subtle contrast between yellow gold, silver, and diamonds combine to create a piece that is both precious and very easy to wear. Total gross weight: 3.80 g Condition: very good condition, imperceptible micro-scratches, natural inclusions in the diamonds not visible to the naked eye.
