Description

Dating from around 1840, this Victorian coffee table with a round tilting top is an authentic piece of antique English furniture, crafted from high-quality mahogany. Its round top has developed a warm, golden patina through natural aging, while its tilting mechanism combines practicality with elegance. The table rests on an elegant rosewood tripod base, adorned with refined molding and a central pointed motif. Originally from Wiltshire, this authentic Victorian table is in excellent condition and free of any signs of wood-boring insects. Thanks to its classic silhouette, this English coffee table fits equally well into both traditional and modern interiors, serving as a remarkable decorative centerpiece.
