Description

Émile Gallé - Gourd-shaped vase with a Vosges landscape design
An elegant, multilayered glass gourd-shaped vase with an opalescent base in shades of amber yellow, blue, and green, featuring a remarkable Vosges landscape. The design, created using acid etching, depicts a lakeside landscape enlivened by trees and conifers, dominated by a majestic tree in the foreground. The composition poetically evokes the natural landscapes of the Vosges, a region dear to Émile Gallé and a major source of inspiration for his work. The gourd-shaped form, with its generously rounded body and flared neck, particularly highlights the depth of the design and the subtle light effects of the multilayered glass. A piece characteristic of the Art Nouveau aesthetic, in which Gallé combines observation of nature,
