Description

PTCI571 - An important pair of reinforced iron doors, equipped with an original central locking system bearing the "Brevetti S.I.S.T.I. - Milano" mark, a testament to specialized Italian manufacturing. The door panels feature a horizontal sheet metal structure, reinforced by sturdy diagonal cross-braces that converge at the central multi-handwheel mechanism. The patented system activates a lock with vertical tie rods and upper and lower anchor points, ensuring a secure, airtight seal typical of technical or secure environments. The cast mark on the lock body identifies the Milan-based manufacturer S.I.S.T.I., a company active in the technical and industrial locking sector during the first half of the 20th century. One of the doors is equipped with protected upper ventilation slits, a functional
