Description

Acrylic on cardboard. Signed in the lower right corner, it is by the Venezuelan artist Carlos Zerpa. A label on the back indicates the title and date. Zerpa, a multifaceted artist trained in Milan, is known for his ability to draw on mythology and historical tales, reinterpreting them through a contemporary lens. In this work, the legendary hand emerging from the lake clutching the sword Excalibur--a reference to the myth of King Arthur--is set against a backdrop of modern buildings, replacing traditional wooded landscapes with urban elements such as lights and concrete balconies. The use of bright, often fluorescent colors characterizes his distinctive style. Hailing from the prestigious Campari collection, the painting is presented in a frame. ARARCO0323406
