cm), and a shield-shaped finial (H 3 cm, width 6.3 cm) that terminates the band and is decorated with chiseled feathers. The band is terminated on each end by a brass hook to which a swivel ring is riveted. Wooden cartridge pouch box covered in black shagreen with gilded brass sides (H 8 cm, width 15.5 cm, thickness 2.8 cm). Black patent leather flap (H 9.6 cm, width at bottom 16.5 cm, width at top 15 cm) with a double frame strip made of gilded brass: the outer strip is fully guilloché (width 5 mm), inner border smooth and polished with agate stone (width 4 mm). In its center is a crowned imperial eagle holding in its talons Jupiter's spindle, sparkling in stamped and gilded brass (H 6.1 cm, width 6.4 cm). France. First Empire. Very good condition; the leather band is partially split in two places and has been restored with a piece of leather glued to the inside.
