Description

Victorian mourning drop earrings in 18 karat gold. These long earrings are composed of three articulated black glass beads imitating onyx. The structure and sleeper-style clasps are crafted in yellow gold. These were likely mourning earrings from a wealthy family, as ladies' attire had to be entirely black for many months following a death. Antique drop earrings, circa 1890, France. Eagle's head hallmarks
Total height: 3 cm - Diameter of the main bead: 1.2 cm
Note: for pierced ears. The clasp inserts from the front.
Condition: fine scratches from wear, minor chips
Weight: 3.83 g
