Description

A 19th-century oil painting on canvas by the famous Dutch master Frederik Lodewijk Huygens. This work is a magnificent example of a classical pastoral landscape, perfectly illustrating the artist's skill. About the artist: Frederik Lodewijk Huygens (1802, The Hague - 1887, Leiden) was a leading Dutch painter, draftsman, and engraver of the 19th century. Huygens found his true calling in the animal and pastoral genres, earning the recognition of his contemporaries for his exceptional skill and great anatomical precision in depicting animals--particularly cows and horses--set against a natural backdrop. In addition to his prolific artistic career, Huygens made significant contributions to academic education by teaching drawing and painting at the Royal
