Elegant Art Deco bed made of wood and wood veneer, likely dating from the 1920s-1930s, featuring a particularly decorative and geometric design. The curved headboard is punctuated by mirrored veneer panels, beautifully highlighting the wood's natural grain. It is framed by vertical posts and fluted motifs typical of the Art Deco style. The upper section is embellished with a beautiful carved design of stylized flowers, arranged symmetrically on either side of the central motif. The footboard echoes this composition with a wide central veneer panel, framed by rounded, fluted side elements, creating a harmonious whole that is highly representative of interwar-era designs. The bed is shown disassembled in the
