Description

Art Deco-era palm wood side table
The marquetry creates a striking contrast. The geometric design is perfectly executed, elevating the piece to the height of refinement. Its square shape is further emphasized by the marquetry at the corners. The central star is framed by a border with diamond-shaped edging. The same decorative motif appears on the apron and the legs, while the base features a stacked Cubist design. The solid wood palm tree accentuates the Bakelite and ebony marquetry. It dates from the height of the colonial era. Simplicity, craftsmanship, and elegance set this one-of-a-kind piece apart. Delivery available (not included in the price).
