Description

Handcrafted chandelier by the Florentine firm Chelini, founded in the 19th century. It is made of carved and gilded wood with a patina, featuring deep-relief decoration of oak leaves and acorns. The central baluster-shaped shaft, with an octagonal cross-section, is topped by a cluster of oak leaves. Its base, a wide bowl adorned with oak leaves, ends in a small sphere featuring the same design. It is illuminated by nine sinuous light arms arranged in two rows, with corollas supporting the faux candles in bouquets of oak leaves. The chandelier measures 85 cm in height, plus a chain and a gilded metal eye cover measuring 70 + 12 cm; it can accommodate even high ceilings thanks to its large diameter of 80 cm. Good condition, fully functional wiring, with its original label, likely never installed. Two
