Description

A bisque porcelain sculpture titled The Nest Finders (or Children with a Baby Bird). A charming allegorical scene typical of the period, depicting two young children (a boy and a girl) discovering a bird's nest. The little girl on the left holds a small cage in her right hand, while the young boy holds a bird in his. The group rests on a circular, gilded wooden base with fluted molding. It is modeled after a design by the famous French sculptor Auguste Moreau (1834-1917), dating from the late 19th century.
