Description

An elegant rolling sideboard or mobile bar from the 1960s, crafted in the refined Hollywood Regency style. It features a silver-toned metal frame accented by slender fluted posts and rests on four wheels, including two large spoked side wheels that give it a particularly decorative silhouette. The oval-shaped top is finished in beautiful veined gray marble. It is surrounded by an openwork silver-tone metal railing that is both elegant and functional. The lower tray, veneered in mahogany, features a built-in bottle holder capable of securing several bottles while the serving cart is in motion. The piece harmoniously combines the depth of mahogany, the nuances of gray marble, and the luster of silver-plated metal. Its design, inspired by English furniture, is characteristic of mid-20th-century Hollywood
