Description

A pair of flared chandeliers with numerous light arms (10) made of gilded metal, entirely adorned with garlands of cut crystal in chains and almond-shaped pendants. The central glass crown and the cobalt blue crystal ornaments at the top are the distinctive features of these traditional Genoese chandeliers. The curved arms, the cut-glass lampshades, and the festoons of crystal beads create an effect of lightness and transparency characteristic of this style. Genoa, Italy, 19th century. Pair.
