Description

A large Louis XV-style dining table, richly carved and accented with gilding, displaying remarkable decorative quality. The rectangular tabletop with scalloped corners is adorned with a painted floral motif on an ivory background, accented by a gilded border. The particularly elaborate molding features a rich decoration of shells, rocaille, foliage, and floral motifs, with latticework panels. The table rests on four strongly curved legs, carved with foliage and ending in scrolls, connected by a richly carved central crossbar. The piece is embellished with ivory polychromy and gilded highlights, giving it a particularly elegant presence. Thanks to its generous dimensions, it can comfortably seat several guests and will naturally find its place in a dining room, living room, or a home of
