Pair Of Wrought-iron Planters - 17th Century

600 EUR

Period : 17th century

Condition : Très bon état

Material : Wrought iron

Description

A rare and elegant pair of wrought-iron planters, crafted in the 17th century with refined, entirely hand-forged workmanship. Characterized by a slender structure with a tripod base, they feature elegant scrollwork, an original central intertwined knot, and shaped finials--elements that attest to the high level of craftsmanship in 17th-century Italian ironwork. The surface retains a splendid antique patina, developed over the centuries, which enhances their authenticity and historical charm. Solid and perfectly stable, they represent an important testament to the art of period wrought iron. The planters are in excellent condition, with normal signs of wear fully consistent with their age. DIMENSIONS: Height approx. 100 cm - Width approx. 40 cm - CONTACT -FOR ANY ADDITIONAL
