Description

This pair of landscape paintings is by Jules Louis Moréteau; both are set in Guinea and dated 1936. Jules Louis Moréteau presents here two village scenes from the heart of "French Guinea" at the time, where he was commissioned by the government to depict the local landscapes and customs. These oil-on-panel paintings depict two scenes set against a backdrop of either mountains or forests; they serve as a testament to the colonial era between the two world wars. They are in excellent condition and framed. Dimensions: 46 cm wide x 37 cm high (without frame) / 56 cm wide x 49 cm high (with frame)
