Description

Elegant Art Nouveau-style bathroom cabinet, made in the early 1900s entirely of cream-ivory lacquered wood with a hand-distressed finish. It features an impressive original vintage white glazed ceramic sink, with a sinuous raised rim and a practical curved back panel, complete with a hole for faucets and a central drain. The cabinet below is characterized by the soft, harmonious lines typical of Italian Art Nouveau, with sculpted, slightly flared scroll-shaped legs that lend the structure a sense of grace and lightness. The front is embellished with an elegant decorative composition: two upper drawers with floral rosette knobs, a smooth central panel, and two additional side drawers, also featuring handles in the shape of stylized flowers. The large single-door lower compartment conceals a
