Description

Light for a photo lab. Light and light-proof red glass lantern by Pigeon. Created in 1884, Pigeon's brass lamps diversified and became specialized: candle lamps, wall lamps, flashlights, and lamps for photographic development with red-tinted glass, which first appeared in 1885. This complete set from the Pigeon brand, featuring its red glass light-proof lantern, is quite rare. They allow for the development of photographs by providing a small amount of light without affecting the chemicals. Good condition. Height: 31 cm.- This item is available for immediate purchase, payable via PayPal; we also accept bank transfers or French checks.- We do not accept sales over the phone; sales will be conducted exclusively via email or through the Proantic messaging system.- We ensure our items
