Description

Charming Louis XV-era cane chair made of painted, molded, and carved wood. Cabriolet-style backrest with violin-shaped contours, carved with small flowers that also appear in the center of the front crossbar of the seat frame. The seat rests on curved legs. Worn caning; restorations and missing sections. Stamped JP Letellier and JME (Guild of Carpenters and Cabinetmakers) Jacques-Pierre Letellier "the Younger," who became a master craftsman in 1767, took over his father's family workshop and diversified production. He produced chairs and furniture until the Revolutionary period.
