Description

An elegant French Louis XV style walnut settee dating from the late 19th century, featuring a beautifully shaped and carved frame with the graceful curves characteristic of the period. The gently arched upholstered back is framed by molded walnut and crowned with a finely carved foliate motif. The open arms flow into elegantly curved supports, while the serpentine seat rail is centered by a carved shell ornament. The settee stands on four slender cabriole legs, giving the piece a particularly light and refined silhouette. The walnut frame displays a warm, naturally aged patina, with subtle variations in tone that highlight the carved details and curves of the wood. The seat and back are upholstered in a pale gold and cream woven fabric decorated with delicate floral motifs in soft green and burgundy tones. Decorative braided trim follows the contours of the upholstery. The generous proportions make this an attractive and practical two-seat piece, ideal for a living room, bedroom, entrance hall or dressing room. Its restrained carving and elegant proportions allow it to work equally well in a traditional interior or as a decorative accent in a more contemporary setting.
