Description

Convex ceramic mask with a rust-brown glaze, speckled with dark blue and accented with black, with traces of shaping on canvas on the inner surface, and an incised "R L" mark. This may be an experimental piece, a type of work Lachenal regularly engaged in; he is known for his experiments with clay bodies, stoneware, and original forms. It may be a one-of-a-kind piece. Here, the inspiration is clearly drawn from primitive and African art, and even brutalism. This piece is in perfect condition.
