Description

Maude Fiorentino Valle 1869-1968 Oil on cardboard depicting a lively scene of washerwomen at work in a sunlit clearing. The way the light plays on the foliage is remarkable. In good overall condition, with very minor losses of paint along the edges. Signed lower right "Maud Valle" and dated 1902. Presented in a lovely frame from the first half of the 20th century with minor signs of wear. Maude Fiorentino Valle, known as Maude Valle, is an American painter now remembered for her watercolors exhibited in 1930 at the National Gallery of Washington. These works are part of the Index of American Design. An artist worth rediscovering and collecting. Overall dimensions: 7 x 37 cm. View size: 35 x 27 cm.
