Description

An elegant Jugendstil oak bookcase from the Netherlands or Belgium, dating to the early 20th century. Crafted in solid quarter-sawn oak, the piece exemplifies the refined geometry and artisanal precision characteristic of Dutch and Belgian Art Nouveau furniture. The design features four adjustable shelves within an open display section, surmounted by a small upper cabinet with paneled doors and a brass geometric escutcheon. The vertical corner posts are turned and ringed, rising above the top as small finials; a sculptural detail shared with its matching cabinet (ref. 26-0074), forming a harmonious suite. The oak retains a warm, original patina, with rich grain and subtle depth that highlight its craftsmanship. Structurally sound and well-preserved, showing only minor wear
