Description

Tabernacle-reliquary of Saint Charles Borromeo Northern Italy or the Alpine region, 17th-early 18th century An important Baroque reliquary tabernacle made of ebony, richly adorned with columns, volutes, and a pediment, embellished with decorative elements in gilded metal and bone. In the center, a remarkable brass plaque (28 cm x 14 cm), embossed and fire-gilded, depicting the Coronation of the Virgin by the Holy Trinity, surrounded by clouds and angel heads, with a landscape in the lower portion. In the base, several relics accompanied by delicate monastic craftsmanship; in the center, a relic ex ossibus of Saint Charles Borromeo, identified by the inscription "S. Carolus. Ep." A portrait of the saint, cardinal, and archbishop of Milan, is depicted in the upper niche. A rare and
