Description

A charming pair of small Italian Rocaille-style mirrors made of carved and gilded wood. They feature a design of grape clusters and vine tendrils, ears of wheat, and acanthus leaves. The mirrors were replaced at a later date. The gilding is done using the "à la mecca" technique, a typically Italian method that involves applying silver leaf followed by a gold varnish, which evaporates over time, leaving a beautiful patina! A few minor historical restorations. Italy. 18th century.
