Description

Elegant English-style desk made of mahogany or mahogany veneer, with a leather top and original trompe-l'oeil decoration depicting book spines. The rectangular top is upholstered in fawn-colored leather, adorned with a gold-stamped border. The leather shows signs of wear, marks, and a patina developed over time, which lends the piece a great deal of character. The front features two large drawers with decorative brass handles. The lower sections are adorned with panels imitating bound books, a highly sought-after decorative detail for a library desk or study. The desk is finished on both sides, allowing it to be placed freely in the center of a room. Its classic style, brass details, and faux-book decor give it a striking presence in an office, library, living room, or collector's home. A
