Description

A very elegant pair of terracotta columns forming saddle-shaped supports, from the Gossin company in Paris, dating from the 19th century.With a beautiful decorative presence, these columns feature a remarkable, carefully crafted stone-colored patina that gives them the appearance and understated elegance of ancient stone. Their decoration and proportions reflect the refined taste of 19th-century Parisian decorative arts.Perfectly suited for displaying sculptures, busts, vases, or objets d'art, they can also be placed on either side of an entryway, a fireplace, or in a gallery.The subtly nuanced patina adds great depth to the piece and allows this pair to blend seamlessly into both classic and contemporary interiors.A particularly decorative pair, sought after for its elegance, fine material,
