Description

A very beautiful small Art Deco pedestal table made of various types of wood; the tabletop features a central rosette motif with geometric marquetry, burl, ebony, rosewood, etc. Given the quality and beauty of this small side table, it is most certainly the work of a renowned cabinetmaker who could likely be identified *It rests on four very elegant, tapered, faceted legs, the upper portions of which are adorned with inlaid ebony fillets arranged in a cascading pattern and highlighted by fine fillets of light-colored wood; each topped by two superimposed rings or bands surmounted by a small ebony disc. The oval tabletop, featuring a radiating design, is framed by a flowing band whose elegant, sinuous lower line ends, on either side of the top of the legs, in elegant scrolls or
