Description

A crystal vase created in 1994 by Belgian master glassmaker Louis Leloup. Ovoid in shape with a tapered neck, it features crystal in shades of raspberry pink and deep red, enlivened by filaments, clouds, and inclusions in bluish-gray and ochre hues. The design varies noticeably depending on the viewing angle and reveals the full depth of the workman's craftsmanship. The body is embellished with substantial relief appliqués with a gilded finish, molded against the crystal and forming a striking contrast with the body of the soliflore. The piece is signed on the base and dated 94. Louis Leloup (1929-2025), a Belgian master glassmaker, developed a distinctive body of work centered on blown crystal, focusing in particular on inclusions, filigree, millefiori, and color effects. Height: 18
