Description

An interesting half-length male portrait--set within an elegant frame gilded with 18-karat gold--depicting a young gentleman elegantly attired in a white shirt and a voluminous red cloak. The figure is portrayed against a dark background, wearing a distinctive headpiece embellished with a feather and a red decorative element. The rendering of the facial features, the figure's pose, and the color palette evoke the tradition of 18th-century Italian portraiture, with stylistic traits pointing to Northern Italy. The quality of the facial characterization and the meticulous rendering of the clothing lend the work a striking pictorial presence and an elegant appeal for collectors. Oil on canvas, 18th century.
