Description

An elegant 18th-century Louis XVI armchair in carved wood, a refined example of French neoclassical style. The frame features a slightly curved, contoured backrest, scalloped armrests, and fluted truncated-cone legs, typical of the style. The solid, well-preserved frame is embellished with carved motifs and a delicate nailhead trim along the perimeter of the backrest and seat. The seat and backrest are upholstered; the upholstery and padding need to be replaced, offering the opportunity for a customized restoration that respects the original style or meets contemporary needs. Ideal for classic settings, formal studies, or interiors with historic charm. Condition: sound frame in good condition; upholstery and padding need to be replaced.
