Description

An elegant Daum Nancy vase from the Art Nouveau period, crafted from multilayered glass with rich polychromatic coloring. The vase features a remarkable botanical design composed of engraved and patinated foliage, accented by several fruits in shades of orange-red, set against a superb gradient background ranging from green to yellow, orange, and brown. The quality of the glass and the engraving work lend the piece a beautiful depth and great decorative richness, characteristics of Daum Nancy's Art Nouveau-era productions. Condition: The original collar was cut off and then professionally restored; there is slight chipping on the base of the vase--see photo. This restoration is visible and should be taken into account when evaluating the piece. The rest of the object retains its beautiful decorative
