Description

French School, working between Post-Impressionism and Symbolistic style, characteristic of late 19th-century studio nudes. Intended for private collectors' cabinets (cabinets d'amateurs). Unsigned oil on canvas depicting, against a purple drapery backdrop, a young nude female with red hair styled in a bun, posing modestly with her arm draped over her face in an artist's studio. Period giltwood and stucco frame decorated with a laurel leaf frieze. France, Late 19th - Early 20th century. Good original condition. Oil on canvas without prior restoration. The paint surface features fine age craquelure throughout the background. A tiny puncture with minor paint loss is visible near the top of the canvas. Frame shows light signs of wear to the original gilding and stucco (see photos).
