Description

A decorated and glazed ceramic vase with striking visual impact, featuring a refined cobalt-blue background against which a large ivory-toned dragon stands out, depicted amid stylized clouds and waves. The decoration is particularly rich and meticulously detailed: the dragon's body features a meticulous rendering of its scales, flames, and head details, while the upper and lower parts of the vase are embellished with elaborate ornamental bands, geometric patterns, arabesques, clouds, and floral motifs. The slender neck is decorated with light-colored flowers and ornamental motifs on a blue background, connected to the body by a geometric band. The lower section features a wave-like decoration that completes the composition. The contrast between the deep blue of the surface, the light-colored dragon design, and the decorative elements gives the vase a striking presence, making it particularly well-suited for elegant settings and interiors with an eclectic or Oriental style. Given its size and shape, it can be used in many ways--as an ornament in niches, on columns, or on furniture--but it also serves well as an umbrella stand or an elegant walking stick holder, particularly enhancing the beauty of antique or collectible walking sticks.
