Description

A beautiful Spanish Model 1913 bayonet, manufactured by the Artillería Nacional de Toledo, presented with its original scabbard. It features a long, straight blade with a rounded tip and a deep longitudinal blood groove. The steel mount features checkered wooden grip plates secured by two rivets and a guard with a curved quillon. The heel of the blade bears the characteristic marking "ARTILLERIA NACIONAL - TOLEDO," accompanied by the emblem of crossed cannons. The reverse side features a serial number as well as various inspection stamps. The black scabbard, with a fluted body, is finished with metal fittings. The set retains a beautiful antique patina with signs of use, minor oxidation, scratches, and wear consistent with its military character and age, as
