Description

Art Nouveau red-patinated bronze servant call button, complete.

Charming female statuette depicting an elegant lady with a gracefully curved posture. Dressed in a long gown and wearing an elaborate hairstyle, she holds a letter that she appears to receive with evident delight.

The figure stands on a circular base that forms the lid of a servant call button, intended for household staff in affluent homes around 1900.

The original electric calling mechanism, made of wood and metal and designed for direct-current operation, is still present. Only the connecting wire, which originally passed beneath the statuette, is missing.

Dimensions: height 11 cm (4.33 in); base diameter 3.1 cm (1.22 in).

Weight: 75 g (2.65 oz).

An attractive and unusual collector's item, characteristic of the Art Nouveau period.
