

Enameled Silver Spoon With Rock Crystal - Austria - 19th Century

1 100 EUR

Period : 19th century

Condition : Bon état

Material : Sterling silver

Length : 13,5 cm

Description

An elegant 19th-century Austrian spoon, crafted in the Renaissance style. The polychrome enameled silver handle features rich architectural and ornamental decoration, enhanced with enamels in shades of blue, turquoise, white, and red. The upper portion is adorned with a female bust, set within an openwork design inspired by the Renaissance. The spoon head, carved from beautiful translucent rock crystal, has a slightly irregular shape that emphasizes the object's precious and decorative character. A fine example of the 19th-century historicist taste for precious Renaissance and Kunstkammer objects.
