Description

Coffee table from the Eros collection, designed by Angelo Mangiarotti and produced by Skipper in Italy around 1975. Made entirely of Emperador marble, it consists of a thick tabletop with organic contours reminiscent of a leaf, featuring a circular opening into which the truncated cone-shaped base fits. This interlocking assembly, which requires no mechanical fasteners, is characteristic of the Eros collection and makes direct use of the stone's weight and structural properties. Produced by Skipper, Italy, circa 1975.
