Description

Pyramide Desk designed by Wim Rietveld in the Netherlands in the late 1950s. The rectangular top, covered in white Formica with gray stripes, rests on a black-lacquered metal frame consisting of four tapered legs that slope outward. This distinctive base gives the desk a light, graphic silhouette, reduced to just a few structural elements. Original De Cirkel label visible under the tabletop. Produced by De Cirkel, circa 1960.
