Description

A moment of nature captured in porcelain. This elegant figurine depicts a northern finch perched on a branch, its wings slightly spread and tail raised, as if caught just as it is about to take flight. The modeling is particularly lifelike. The finely sculpted plumage combines shades of brown, cream, and black with luminous yellow stripes. The glossy glaze highlights the texture of the feathers, the delicacy of the beak, and the movement of the wings. Manufactured by W. Goebel, West Germany. Model number CV 86, created in 1967. "Goebel - W. Germany" is inscribed beneath the branch. In perfect condition
