Description

Oak paneled bookcase. It was made in the 1940s using 19th-century paneling elements. 4 lattice doors 4 solid doors And 2 storage compartments or gun racks on the sides. The interior is paneled, and there are several holes in the lower left corner, possibly for running wires through. The upper section can be disassembled into two pieces. It is heavy, but it is possible to disassemble the lower section; however, we did not need to do so.
