Description

Oil on canvas. Signed and dated in the lower right corner. From the Campari corporate collection. Luigi Mantovani, born and trained in Milan, established himself on the art scene and became an active participant in the city's cultural circles, to which he dedicated his body of work--consisting primarily of landscapes and cityscapes, both of Milan and, often, of Venice. His distinctive style is characterized by the use of light, almost transparent colors, applied with broad, broken brushstrokes to create an evanescent, almost dreamlike atmosphere. The painting has been restored and re-stretched. Presented in a frame. ARARNO0325866
