650 EUR

Period : 19th century

Condition : Très bon état

Material : Silk

Description

A stunning pair of antique curtains made of pink silk, dating from the 19th century, featuring a remarkable pattern of vertical stripes in shades of pink, beige, and gold, embellished with delicate floral and foliage motifs. The silk offers magnificent shades depending on the light, with a very beautiful play of matte and sheen that highlights the richness of the fabric. The design, composed of flowers, foliage, and stylized motifs, is exceptionally elegant and reflects the refinement of antique upholstery fabrics. Both panels are lined with a fine blackout wool and canvas. The lining shows some traces of dust due to its age and use, without detracting from the remarkable appearance of the silk on the front. The curtains are fitted with integrated gold rings, allowing for easy installation. Period: 19th
