Description

Yvonne Brudo is a 20th-century French artist whose work, imbued with tenderness and light, focuses on scenes of childhood and everyday life. Her mixed-media technique, combining watercolor and enhanced drawing, allows her to create compositions that are both spontaneous and finely crafted. This watercolor enhanced with pen and ink, dating from the period 1930-1945, depicts a seated child holding a large basket of flowers, set against the backdrop of a flower-filled garden in shades of green and red. The composition, both intimate and luminous, reflects the artist's sensitivity to scenes of childhood. Signed lower right.
