Description

Three-door English mahogany bookcase - 19th century
Elegant 19th-century English mahogany bookcase, featuring three large glass-paned doors on the front. The doors feature a beautiful arched cutout at the top, accented by fine moldings. The lower section consists of solid panels that beautifully highlight the warm tones and grain of the mahogany. The piece is topped by a wide, molded cornice with rounded corners, characteristic of 19th-century English furniture. The similarly rounded side posts lend the piece a particularly elegant silhouette. The interior offers ample storage space with numerous height-adjustable shelves, perfect for displaying books, collectibles, porcelain, or glassware. This large, three-door English bookcase features fine cabinetmaking and a striking presence. Period:
