Description

A set of eight dining chairs produced by Maison Roméo in Paris in the 1970s. The frame combines chrome-plated metal and polished brass, featuring the geometric lines characteristic of the company's post-Art Deco / Hollywood Regency style. Backrests and seats upholstered in their original black velvet. Condition: The metal frame shows a few small spots of oxidation visible in close-up, and the original velvet seats show slight sagging due to age. Dimensions: Height: 92 cm. Width: 46 cm. Depth: 47 cm.
