Description

Pair of large table lamps--Carcel-style--from the prestigious Parisian manufacturer Decan & Cie. Made of gilded bronze with a patina. Originally designed as mechanical lamps with a dimmer, they have been carefully converted to electric power while retaining their original charm and structure. The body of each lamp features the chiseling and patina characteristic of 19th-century Parisian bronze work: The square base rests on four richly carved legs, adorned with an openwork design of stylized shells and blooming acanthus leaves. The intermediate base: It consists of a double cubic pedestal with beveled sides, crafted from bronze with a medal-tone or gunmetal patina, edged at the top by a gilded brass frieze chiseled with gadroons and palmettes. bronze nameplate and the hole for inserting the winding key are located on the central ring. The shaft (column): The upper section rises from a broad corolla of water leaves in high relief. This gives way to a central cylindrical shaft with twisted fluting in patinated bronze, crowned by a collar also carved with plant motifs. In good condition and in working order.
